ABOUT ME

With a solid foundation of over six years in web application development, I am a JavaScript connoisseur, dedicated to creating tailor-made solutions that meet the specific needs of each client. My approach to collaboration is deeply rooted in Agile practices, with a particular emphasis on SCRUM, which promotes effective teamwork and project flexibility. My proficiency with GIT-based repositories is a testament to my commitment to achieving objectives and delivering outstanding results. My expertise extends beyond front-end development; I possess practical experience in backend engineering utilizing Node.js, adept at navigating various CMS platforms, and proficient in orchestrating server-side logic and integrations. Additionally, my contributions to mobile development are noteworthy, having engaged in the creation of cross-platform applications using Flutter and React Native, skillfully adjusting to the varying demands of users and the technicalities of different platforms.
